INTRODUCTION

The Chiang-pien-chieh Hydro Power Plant (Liu-lang-tung) is located on the eastern bank of the Nan-pan Chiang (River) approximately 15 nautical miles southeast of Chu-yuan, China.

BASIC DESCRIPTION

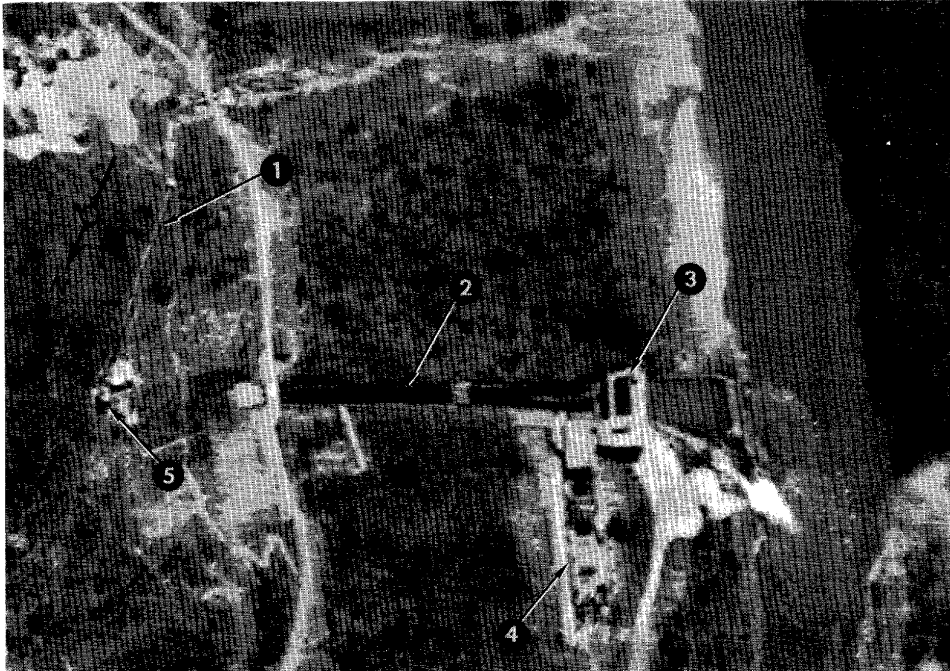

This plant appears complete, and there has been no new construction since the date of the latest photography used in the referenced report. The powerhouse is large enough to accommodate at least two turbogenerators. A switching yard containing three transformers is located just north of the powerhouse. Water is supplied to the plant through two penstocks and comes from an unknown source.

Water turbulence in the tailrace indicated that the plant was operating on both referenced missions.
